About the Workshop

During past few years, e-resources in the form of e-books, e-journals, online databases, journal archives, electronics theses & databases etc have occupied a major portion of library collection due to its advantages over print counterparts. Also a large number of e-resources are being published by almost all leading publishers of India in every field of knowledge with various pricing and access models. The open access resources are also available now days in large numbers and in various types. Accordingly e-resources have posed challenges for libraries to organize properly and retrieve the required documents from the vast amount of e-resources. In this context, it is highly essential for libraries to develop/acquire some tools and adopt some techniques for proper management of these e-resources. This Workshop is unique of its kind with resource persons form leading publishers/developers of e-resource management tools & Librarians, which aims to provide a platform to discuss various aspects of e-resource management. The workshop would be a good opportunity for Faculty Members, Research Scholars and Library & Information Science Professionals to gain knowledge on modern e-resource management tools and techniques which will be helpful for effective e-resource management in libraries.
